

Using Copyright-Protected Works in Presentation Slides

The Copyright Act includes an exception for educational institutions that permits the Reproduction of copyright-protected works so that they can be displayed.

*Refer to Section 29.4(1) of the Copyright Act.

Reproduction: Images, diagrams, or text from a copyright-protected work can be copied.

When using content from online sources:

- Avoid content from online sources that are password protected or access requires a login.
- Avoid content that is protected by a technological protection measure (TPMs) or digital locks.
- Avoid content that may have been posted to the online source without the permission of the copyright owner.
- Avoid content that is accompanied by a clearly visible copyright notice that prohibits educational use.

Always make sure that any content you reproduce for the purpose of display isn't already commercially available in the format you need it in.

Always cite your source! Remember to acknowledge the source and author of the copyright-protected work that has been reproduced for the purpose of display.

Properly cited images and text that have been reproduced for the purpose of display can be:

- Displayed on whiteboards, blackboards, flip charts, overhead projectors, and interactive smartboards.
- Included in presentation slides and posted to FOL.

For more information, please contact Meaghan Shannon, Copyright Services Officer at:
m_shannon@fanshawec.ca or extension 4346.